

Jeffery A. Dusek, Ph.D., is the Director of Research, Penny George Institute for Health and Healing, Allina Health, Minneapolis.

The Penny George Institute for Health and Healing is one of the nation's largest inpatient integrative programs and has served more than 50,000 unique patients since 2004. In 2011, Dr. Dusek was awarded a multi-year R01 grant from the National Institute of Health to study the impact of integrative medicine on pain management in hospitalized patients.

Dr. Dusek is a member of the Executive Committee of the BraveNet Practice Based Research Network (PBRN), a group of 18 eminent integrative medicine clinics across the US. He is a Principal Investigator of the large-scale BraveNet registry study called PRIMIER. His research focuses observational data to evaluate the impact of integrative therapies for hospitalized inpatients and clinic outpatients.

Results of Dr. Dusek's research have been published in as the Journal of the National Cancer Institute, Circulation, PLoS One and the Proceedings of the National Academy of Science. Additionally, his research has been covered in such places as the New York Times, Boston Globe, Washington Post, USA Today, National Public Radio and the Minneapolis Star Tribune.