

DEAR COLLEAGES,
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

Traditional Japanese Medicine is continuously spreading in Western countries, not only Japanese style Acupuncture but also Japanese Herbal Medicine (Kampo Medicine).

The administration of herbal formulae has a history of more than 1500 years in Japan. Originating in China, Japanese Kampo Medicine obtained unique features in Japan, characterized by a refinement and pragmatic reduction of the application and the number of herbs.

Indications are a variety of chronic and functional diseases, such as functional gastrointestinal disorders, allergies, autoimmune diseases, deficiency syndromes, menopausal disorders, and problems in oncology and geriatrics.

Today, Kampo Medicine is well integrated into modern health care in Japan. Extensive research has been conducted in basic and clinical research, and a standard regarding the quality of herbal products has been developed.

Our one day symposium will highlight recent advances in all major aspects of Japanese Kampo Medicine - including historical, anthropological, preclinical and clinical features.

Please join us to learn more about traditional knowledge and new evidence from research and clinical practice.

Leading experts from Japan and the West in this field will be happy to discuss and to share their clinical experience.
